Audiences this year got to enjoy This is NOT About My Dead Dog, an apparently autobiographical one-woman play written and performed by Amy Schwabauer. The loosely related string of vignettes was largely about drinking and vomiting, and it's exactly as witty and interesting as it sounds. The talented actress can definitely spin a worthy anecdote and command the stage with flair and subtlety. It was a well above average work from a young playwright that has us and audiences excited to see what vehicles she comes up with next.
