THE MAC WELLMAN HOMEcomings FESTIVAL

PRESENTED BY PLAYWRIGHTS LOCAL
WITH CLEVELAND STATE UNIVERSITY & NEOMFA
MARCH 23-25, 2017 • CLEVELAND, OHIO
ABOUT THE FESTIVAL

The Mac Wellman Homecoming Festival celebrates a groundbreaking playwright from Cleveland, Ohio—a major figure in American letters and an essential presence in the literary heritage of our region. The festival runs March 23 - 25, 2017 at Cleveland State University and secondary locations. All events at the primary venue are free and open to the public.

The Festival is presented by Playwrights Local in partnership with Cleveland State University Department of English, the NEOMFA Creative Writing Program, and the Michael Schwartz Library.

The Festival features performances by Playwrights Local, Theater Ninjas, convergence-continuum, CSU Department of Theatre and Dance, Baldwin Wallace University Department of Theatre and Dance, and The Manhattan Project – Cleveland Lab, and contributions by many others.

The Festival was curated by David Todd, Artistic Director of Playwrights Local in Cleveland.

ABOUT MAC WELLMAN

Born in Cleveland in 1945, Mac Wellman is Distinguished Professor of Play Writing at Brooklyn College, and a widely recognized playwright, novelist, and poet. His honors include NEA, Guggenheim, and Rockefeller fellowships; multiple Obies; commissions from McKnight and Sundance; and residencies at Yaddo and the MacDowell Colony.

Wellman’s recent plays include The Offending Gesture (2016), Muazzez (2014), and Horrocks (and Toutatis Too) (2013). His most-frequently produced plays include The Difficulty of Crossing a Field, The Hyacinth Macaw, A Murder of Crows, and Sincerity Forever. Anthologies include The Difficulty of Crossing a Field (2008) and Cellophane (2001).

Wellman’s novels include Linda Perdido (2011) and Q’s Q (2006). His books of poetry include Split the Stick (2012) and Miniature (2002).

Wellman has taught playwriting at Yale, Princeton, NYU, RISD, Brown, and TheatreWorks (Singapore). He is a co-founder of The Flea Theater and an acknowledged mentor to numerous younger playwrights.
PRAISE FOR MAC

AS A PLAYWRIGHT

“An avatar of alternatives to the well-made play.”
— American Theatre, 2016

“James Joyce reborn as a rap artist.”

"Wellman creates a unique, language-driven mise-en-scene that pulverizes the syntax of traditional theatre...His theatre becomes a spur to reimagining American culture."
— American Theatre, 1999

AS A TEACHER

“Mac Wellman is a teacher who changed my life. He is one of the smartest and most generous writers I have ever known; maybe one of the smartest and most generous ever.”
— Annie Baker, 2014 Pulitzer Prize for Drama

“He extends the limits of what's possible on stage.”
— Sarah Ruhl

“He explodes all the boundaries because he is so passionate about changing what a play is in American theater.”
— Sibyl Kempson

Bitter Bierce (2003)

Written by Mac Wellman
Directed by Christopher Johnston
Presented by Playwrights Local

Journalist. War Veteran. Cynic. Author. Ambrose Bierce invites audiences into the depths of his eventful life, lacing his tale with his sarcastic definitions from “The Devil’s Dictionary.” Rich with history, humor, and tragedy, Bierce tells us the tumultuous story of his life and times, from his experiences in the Civil War and his newspaper career to his travels and amusing run-ins with famous public figures.

The Good, the Bad, and Mac: Local Playwrights Do Mac Wellman’s Writing Prompt

Hosted by Peter J Roth
Presented by The Manhattan Project - Cleveland Lab

Staged readings of ten-minute plays by local writers in response to one of Mac Wellman's most liberating and effective challenges: Write a Bad Play. In an hour. It must be the worst possible play you can write.

Parodying Fiction by Nakanaela Bell
featuring Julia Fisher, Lincoln Weiss, and Tim Collingwood

The Best Play You'll Ever See, Probably by Kevin Latimer
featuring Jack Schmitt, Evan Zuzik, and Jason Bogdany

Better Than a Day Spent on Fire by Angelo Maneage
featuring Craig A. Webb and Peter J Roth

Draft for My Absolutely Stupendous One-Woman, as Narrated By Moi and Performed by Three Dudes or Whatever by Amanda VanAllen
featuring herself, Kris Leiter, Daniel Dang, and Steven Lampere

Sincerity Forever (1990)

Written by Mac Wellman
Directed by Jeremy Paul
Presented by Theater Ninjas

Two profane aliens have landed in the Southern town of Hillsbottom. Is God watching? Does he care? Is God a He? Mac Wellman addresses these and other questions in this Obie Award–winning play that skewers the social malignancy of ignorance.

Theater Ninjas: We're a nomadic company who seeks out new and exciting spaces to perform. Working in non-traditional venues gives us an opportunity to reimagine how and why we tell stories, and helps us to create deep, fascinating worlds for the audience to explore. We're always experimenting; always rethinking what theater can be: as entertainment, as art and as out-of-the-ordinary experiences.

Harm’s Way (1978)

Written by Mac Wellman
Directed by Clyde Simon
Presented by convergence-continuum

Harm's Way takes place in a mythical American West where every action is more than it seems. These are the fantastical adventures of Santouche, a very angry person, as he attempts to make sense of his understanding of law and order in a world of other angry persons. The action does not unfold in any specific time or place. However, all the characters drink from the same poisoned well, which is recognizably American and western. The time might be anytime in the last seventy years, or even not impossibly in the next.

convergence-continuum: What if theatre weren't a mirror reflecting the familiar, but an opening into unknown territory? What if there were no fourth wall? What if, instead of going to the theatre to watch a play, you crossed the threshold into the world of the play to experience it? Theatre that expands the imagination and extends the conventional boundaries of language, structure, space, and performance that challenges the conventional notions of what theatre is. What sort of theatre would this be? We are convergence-continuum.
